

TO GIVE SENTENCE ON SEPTEMBER 10

BOY SLAYERS' FATE TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

CAVERLY STRIKES OUT CROWE'S FINAL REMARKS

Tense Moment When Judge Chides State's Attorney for Attempted Intimidation—Trial Speediest in History of Cook County.

Chicago.—After portions of the closing argument of Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, had been stricken from the record by Judge John R. Caverly as a "cowardly, dastardly attack upon the integrity of this court and an attempt to intimidate it," the court took under advisement the penalty which he must decide for Nathan Leopold, jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers and murderers of Robert Franks.

The remarks of the court came out of a clear sky and startled the crowded courtroom into a shocked silence. The report of the court's remarks follows:

Mr. Crowe—"The state rests."

The court—"Before the state rests in the other case, the court will order stricken from the record the closing remarks of the state's attorney as being a cowardly and dastardly assault upon the integrity of this court."

Mr. Crowe—"It was not so intended, your honor."

The court—"And it could not be used for any other purpose except to incite a mob and to try to intimidate this court. It will be stricken from the record."

Crowe—"If your honor please, the state's attorney had no such intention."

The court—"We will go on—"

Crowe—"I merely want to put my personal feelings plainly before the court. It was not the intention of the state's attorney."

The court—"The state's attorney knew that it would be heralded all through this country and all over the world and he knows the court hasn't an opportunity except to do what he did. It was not the proper thing to do."

Crowe—"It was not the intention—"

The court—"This court will not be intimidated by anybody at any time or place as long as he occupies this position."

"Now, in order to fix the date that I will settle this case, gentlemen, I want to say there has been a great deal of criticism about the conduct of this case; some of it from well-meaning people who knew no better; others from those who should know better."

"We have been criticized about the delay of justice. The court has been criticized because after a plea of guilty he permitted evidence to be heard and we have been criticized because of the length of time it takes for an execution after the court passes judgment."

"Permit me to say with reference to the delays of justice, that this trial is one of the speediest trials of a criminal case ever heard in Cook county in which the state has asked the death penalty."

"And this could not have been done if it had not been for the able manner in which the state's attorney of this county investigated and prepared his case and was ready to go to trial when called."

"The defense are to be commended because they made no attempt to delay the trial."

"The murder was committed on May 21, exactly two months before the trial started. The defendants were arrested on May 31, ten days after the murder, indicted within six weeks of the day of the indictment this case was on trial."

"So that it cannot be truthfully said that their wealth or property had anything to do with the delay in this case, because there was no delay."

"There were thirty-four indictments returned for murders committed in 1924, between January 1 and May 21, that have not yet been tried; and twenty of the accused are held without bail in the county jail of Cook county."

"To those who criticize the court for listening to testimony after the defendants pleaded guilty, permit me to call their attention to a section of the statutes and to the ruling of the supreme court thereon. The supreme court has said:

"That part of section 4 of Division 13 of the Criminal code making it the duty of the court to examine witnesses as to the aggravation and mitigation of the offense in cases where the party pleads guilty, is man-

UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR PASSES AFTER LINGERING ILLNESS

Berkeley.—Professor Alexis F. Lange, professor of theory and practice in education and former dean of the school of education at the University of California, died at his apartment in the Hotel Carleton, Berkeley, following a lingering illness. He came to the University of California as an instructor in English in 1890 and soon was made an assistant professor. He was acting president of the university during the absence of President Benjamin Ide Wheeler in 1913.

Failing health caused Professor Lange to give up his work in the university last year. He had suffered two severe strokes recently.

Big Dirigible for West Coast

Washington.—The navy's giant rigid dirigible, the Shenandoah, will be sent to operate on the west coast from Lakehurst, N. J., sometime during October or November. The Shenandoah will not leave until after the arrival of the navy's other dirigible, the ZR-3, which will probably leave Frederickshafen, Germany, about the middle of September for her trans-atlantic flight to the United States.

Robs Bank Slugle Handed

Los Angeles.—Entering the First National bank of Watts near closing time, an unmasked, two-gun robber forced two employees into the vault and tied them with a rope he had brought with him and escaped with approximately $9,000 in cash. He is believed to have fled in an automobile with a companion, although no one witnessed his departure.

Loeb Calls for Food When Trial Closes

Chicago.—Within ten minutes after court adjourned "Dicky" Loeb was singing lustily in his cell, "Oh, Go 'Way and Let Me Eat" as he attacked a heaping plate full of food. His song was directed to all those who sought to question him concerning the outcome of the trial. He was in high good spirits, for the court tedium irked him more than it did his companion.

Leopold was somewhat more subdued. He said he was glad the trial was over, although "it did help break the monotony of jail life."

Leopold has always taken a keen, more studentlike, interest in the proceedings than has "Dicky."

datory and not discretionary, and it is necessary for the court to make such examination when requested or desired, either on the part of the people or of the defendant. It would be a reversible error not to do so."

"As to those who criticize our courts for the delay in execution after judgment, this is because they have been reciting here that in England or some other place they executed them within ten days. I would respectfully call their attention to section 749, chapter 38 of our revised statutes, which says:

"When a defendant is sentenced to death, the date set shall not occur before the tenth day of the term of the supreme court occurring after the producing of the judgment."

"So that any defendant who was sentenced to death in this country since the date of the indictment of the two defendants in this case could not be executed before the seventeenth of October next, which is the tenth day of the next term of the supreme court following the June term. A person sentenced to death in the middle of June could not be legally executed sooner than a person sentenced to death between then and October 2."

"I am going to take this case under advisement, gentlemen. I have 1,950 odd pages, practically 2,000 pages, of exhibits. When I say exhibits, it is part of the testimony; it is the Bowman-Hulbert report; parts of the confession; some of the testimony that was read in secret that contained matter that was not fit for publication and should not be heard in the courtroom, and it will take me some little time to do that, and to prepare to decide this matter and render judgment in this case."

"I think I ought to have ten days or so, and I will fix the day at September 10. I will fix the day at September 10 at 9:30 o'clock, and I will say to those people who are here now that there will be nobody admitted in this room on that day except members of the press and members of the families and sheriffs of the state's attorney's staff."

"If anything occurs whereby I could not be in a position or cannot be in a position to render it on that day I will notify the press and the authorities at least three days in advance. But there will be nothing to deter me from rendering judgment on that day, gentlemen, unless it is illness."

"We will continue this case now until September 10 at 9:30 o'clock."

Golden State News of Interest to All

Former Governor Henry Tift Gage died at his home in Los Angeles, August 28, after a lingering illness. He was 74 years old and a native of Geneva, N. Y., born in 1852. Governor Gage settled in Los Angeles in 1877 and was elected to the governorship in 1899, serving until 1903. In 1909 he was made minister plenipotentiary to Portugal, which post he held until the revolution deposed King Manuel. Besides being active in politics, his law practice was large, serving many corporations. The illness which caused his death began more than two years ago with an attack of influenza. The former governor was the son of the late Dewitt Clinton Gage, who was a United States circuit judge in Michigan. He was of the eighth generation of his family in America, tracing his ancestry to Thomas Gage, who settled at Yarmouth, Mass., in 1625.

Rev. C. R. Fairfield, pastor of the Roseville Presbyterian church and center of a factional row between members of his congregation that had all but wrecked the church, has tendered his resignation to become effective as soon as $700 in back salary is paid him. Several months ago Rev. Fairfield created a sensation in Roseville by erecting an electrically illuminated fiery cross on the roof of the church. More recently he obtained statewide publicity when he accepted a sentence in the Placer county jail rather than pay a fine of $50 for reckless driving.

One hundred thousand dollars will be raised in California, among the Knights of Columbus to finance a Rev. Jerome S. Ricard, S. J., the famous long-range weather forecaster at Santa Clara University. Plans of the Ricard observatory foundation committee call for the erection of a $500,000 structure, completely equipped with the latest scientific apparatus for the beloved "Padre de the Rains," at Santa Clara.

The Pacific jurisdiction, Young Ladies' Institute, concluded its annual convention at Sacramento by unanimously adopting a resolution urging that the legislature of California and Washington ratify the child labor amendment passed by congress and which is now before the states awaiting action. The grand president for the following year is Miss Frances O'Callaghan of San Francisco. Miss Jessie Bridgeman of Seattle was elected vice-president.

A kidnapping, in which one of the victims, a girl of 3, was fatally injured in the explosion of an automobile gas tank in the Mojave desert, while her father, La Roe Fitzpatrick, the asserted kidnapper, was unable to save her life, was revealed in a report filed by deputy sheriffs of Los Angeles county, who completed an investigation of the disappearance of Robert C. Fitzpatrick, 6, from the home of his mother.

L. E. Ross, chief of the state bureau of vital statistics, has made public a statement indicating a jump of 8 per cent in the number of births during the last six months, as opposed to a gain of less than 6 per cent in deaths. Ross' report for the first half of the year records the birth of 42,015 babies, the greatest number ever born in a six months' period in the state's history.

The greatest aerial photographic mapping project ever undertaken has just been completed by the photographic personnel of Crissy Field, with the final mapping of the last portion of the Salton sea, the largest single item in the big job, which contains an area of about 500 square miles. In California alone an area in excess of 15,000 square miles has been mapped.

Dean's Habashi Nauts of college, believed by state officials to be the first California institution organized to instruct negroes in navigation and shipbuilding, has incorporated at the office of the secretary of state. The college announces that branches will be formed throughout America and in the republic of Liberia. Alameda is headquarters.

The Central Mendocino County Power company has applied to the railroad commission for authority to issue bonds amounting to an aggregate par value of $50,000. The proceeds will be used to extend and improve the plant at Willits. The company also has asked permission to dispose of 780 acres of land in Redwood valley.

A. S. Crites, of Bakersfield, grand master of the California grand lodge of Masons, has completed his official visits to all parts of the state in preparation to submitting his report at the convention of the grand lodge, October 11 to 17, in Los Angeles. Mr. Crites visited 502 lodges in California before the opening of the state convocation.

CAMPBELL GRAMMAR SCHOOL OPEN SEPT 15

The Campbell Union Grammar school will open Monday, September 15. Of last year's faculty the following members will return: Miss Mary Fablinger, Miss Marie Mace, Miss Hancie Naylor, Mrs. Mabel Keesling, Miss Mildred Stebbins, Miss Elizabeth Cameron, Miss Gertrude McCracken, Miss Mildred Dunlap and Miss Mary Buswell.

The new members are Mr. Ira Abbott district superintendent, and Mrs. Bernice Saver, Mrs. Salle B. Allen, Mrs. Alice Collins, Miss Gertrude Grotphorst, Miss Rowena Farman, domestic science department; Miss Marien Osburn, kindergarten department; Mrs. Olga Weiss, school nurse, R. N.; Mrs. Emma Wilson.

Mr. Abbott comes to the district from Livermore, Cal., where he was superintendent for three years. Previous to his coming to California he was city superintendent of schools in Nebraska, having had several schools under his supervision. He is exceptionally well fitted for his position as a school man, and the district is indeed fortunate in obtaining Mr. Abbott's services.

The superintendent hopes to departmentize the school in the upper grades and there is to be installed a Manual Training Unit for the seventh and eighth grade boys. These two features will undoubtedly increase the efficiency and raise the standard of the school to an enviable position among the schools of the county for scholarship is to be the motto this year.

It will be of interest to those interested in the kindergarten department that the board has settled upon the age of five years and three months as the entrance age and all children of kindergarten age will be transported from the rural district except in the instance where the parents desire to transport their own. Owing to the increase in enrollment, it is desired that those who can take their kindergarten tots either to or from school, to do so, as it will greatly aid in relieving the congestion.

The board has contracted for a new bus, of the latest safety type, to replace the small one which originally carried the outside pupils from the San Thomas district.

The school nurse will be the same as last year but nearly all of her time is to be spent between the two Campbell schools, instead of traveling in her last year's route. This department, although somewhat of a new departure, is fast becoming a very popular addition to the work and a new view of health protection and personal hygiene is taught. It behooves everyone to give the nurse their heartiest co-operation and thus make her doubly efficient.

Last, but not least, send your children to school every day, for keeping them home for some imaginary or trivial thing, reduces the attendance average and thus financially injures other chances for a better education, for the average attendance determines the number of teachers. Therefore, make a special effort to send the children to school regularly and try to influence a delinquent neighbor to do the same.

BOYS FETED

A very pleasant farewell party was given Verne and Hal Mishler and Ted Beatty Friday evening, at the home of Wayne Davis. The young ladies directed by Marie McConnell and Lea Hutchins were the organizers and an enjoyable evening was spent in music, games and dancing. There were sixteen young folks in the party. The honor guests are returning to Bakersfield to re-enter high school.

The Kalas sisters concert sponsored by the Country Woman's Club and Pundita Circle, has been set for Friday evening, September 19. Reserve the date.

HARRIMAN-JONES

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday afternoon when Miss Edna Harriman was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Jones, of San Jose, the Rev. Eckles reading the ring service.

Just before the ceremony Miss Helen Kalas, accompanied by Miss Bozena Kalas, sang "O Promise Me" and Miss Bozena Kalas played the Lohengrin wedding march.

The ceremony was performed on the lawn of the bride's home, on Payne avenue, beneath a beautifully constructed palm bower. Walter Harriman, brother of the bride, accompanied her. Little Bobbie Dodge was the ring bearer. The pretty decorations and palm bower were the idea of Miss Ethel Curry, intimate chum of the bride.

Mrs. Jones has grown up in Campbell community and a host of friends will wish the happy couple a life of joy.

They left in the evening for Salt Lake, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Mr. Jones is in the employ of the Southern Pacific at San Jose, where they will make their home on their return.

CLEAN UP NOTICE

All residents of Campbell are notified that no garbage is to be left at the street corners for removal. Rubbish and cans may be so left in containers that they can be easily handled. All such rubbish must be deposited not later than Friday evening at the street corners on Campbell avenue. This is removed during Friday night and trash left Saturday morning is not picked up until next week. More civic pride is urged by the Improvement Club and if this notice is strictly followed out we need not be ashamed of our streets at any time. More use of the trash cans is also urged for cleanliness and health.

THANK YOU

The post office force has been enjoying to the utmost the beautiful bouquets that have been decorating its desks during the season. John Neff and Gordon Ainsley have been growing the flowers and there seems to be a sort of unmentioned contest on. Mr. Ainsley's purple asters, as large as cyprianthems, have elicited many compliments from flower lovers who have visited this office.

Lieut. Conrad A. Krez, U. S. N., was almost instantly killed at the North Island naval air station, San Diego, when he stepped in front of a plane as it was about to take off. Krez, walking from behind a hangar, was caught in the whirling propeller.

Three hundred representative citizens from all parts of California were the guests of the directors of the new $2,000,000 Hotel Senator in Sacramento, which formerly opened August 23. The dinner guests included state officials and citizens from Siskiyou to the Mexican boundary.

The Santa Clara County Chamber of Commerce was organized at a luncheon of county boosters at the Los Gatos Tea room, Tuesday noon. There were live-wire representatives present from local organizations, Mayfield, Palo Alto, Mountain View, Sunnyvale, San Jose, Campbell, Saratoga, Los Gatos, Morgan Hill, Gilroy, Santa Clara and Los Altos.

The meeting was called to order by Wendell C. Thomas, manager of the San Jose Chamber of Commerce, who eloquently spoke of the need of a central unifying body—an organization that would work wholeheartedly and unselfishly in the interest of the up-building and improving of the entire county.

Following Mr. Thomas' remarks the meeting was turned over to Dr. Blake Franklin, president of the Los Gatos Chamber of Commerce, to act as chairman of the day and Mrs. Lynn L. Lobdell, secretary of the Los Gatos Chamber of Commerce, was appointed to act as secretary.

Remarks were made by the following: Dr. Franklin, of Los Gatos; Geo. D. Gilman, president of the San Jose Chamber of Commerce; W. J. Anderson, of Morgan Hill; F. C. Staniford, of Gilroy; W. K. Roberts, of Sunnyvale; P. Milton Smith, president of the Mountain View Chamber of Commerce; George L. Sullivan, president of the Santa Clara Chamber of Commerce; W. M. Denhart, of Los Altos; Ray W. Smith, of Palo Alto; E. R. Kennedy, of Campbell; H. C. Smith, of Campbell; Chas. N. Lake, of Mountain View; Dr. Robert L. Hogg, of Saratoga; A. E. Falch, of Los Gatos; Thos. D. Landles, of Los Altos; Mrs. Louise N. Scott, of Saratoga.

The central idea brought forward by all the speakers was the need of a county organization. Some of the speakers suggested that such an organization could do good work in promoting the bayshore highway, the Pacheco pass highway, the skyline boulevard, the Saratoga-Big Basin road; the Santa Clara county port service; irrigation and sewer problems.

In discussing the matter of organization it was decided that the presidents and secretaries of the various boost organizations be made members of the county chamber's board of directors; that the chamber meet at noon the first Tuesday of each month. The next meeting will be held October 7, at Palo Alto. The invitation was extended by Ray W. Smith, of that city.

Dr. Franklin appointed the following committee to prepare a constitution and bylaws, and also a program for the next meeting: Wendell C. Thomas, Ray W. Smith, of Palo Alto, and Mr. Carlisle, of Gilroy.

The prime promoter of the county organization idea is Wendell C. Thomas, of Los Gatos. Before he became manager of the San Jose Chamber of Commerce, he advocated the proposition. Since he took charge of the San Jose Chamber's work he became more than ever convinced of the need of a county chamber. During the past month, Mr. Thomas visited the various boost bodies and placed the matter squarely before them, with the result that his proposition was enthusiastically endorsed by all. The enthusiastic meeting here, resulting in the desired organization, showed how well Mr. Thomas had performed his work.

Those who attended the organization meeting here Tuesday were:

Palo Alto—Ray W. Smith.

Mayfield—Herbert S. Henley.

Mountain View—P. Milton Smith,

Chas. N. Lake, S. O. Teal.

The controversy concerning Muzey's history is ended, with the ruling that an agreement entered into between the state and the publishers must stand. Objections raised were that the history was pro-British and did not state all facts of America's growth truthfully, and omitted important events connected with the founding of the republic.

Odd Residence Chosen by Three Englishmen

In a lonely Martella tower on the Essex coast of England there has just died the last of three brothers, who, refusing to admit women to their household, lived by themselves for nearly thirty years.

All were talented men. William Cole was a naturalist, who founded the Essex museum at Stratford and the Essex Field club. Benjamin Cole was an entomologist and Henry Cole, the last to die, was an artist, etcher and sculptor.

The tower was a comfortable though somber residence. It was difficult of access, for it is surrounded by a moat over 20 feet deep and 30 feet wide. This is crossed by a narrow iron gangway, which can be drawn up.

A heavy oaken door leads into the tower, the walls of which are eight feet thick. Below are dungeons, while the roof is reached by a narrow, dark stairway set in the thickness of the wall. From the top the brothers could obtain magnificent views across the North sea, over the estuary of the Colne and Blackwater, and across to Colchester and Brightlingsea.

By the end of 1925 it is expected that the entire Victory highway through northern Nevada will be completed, according to George W. Borden, Nevada state highway commissioner, who, with Governor J. G. Scrugham of Nevada were on a visit to California recently.

WHAT DID WE WIN?

America won in the Olympic games, but what did she win? A few medals, some dozen or more heroes to be written up in the year's statistic almanac, and some lessons on how to increase physical endurance by eating (like the Finns) black bread and dried fish, and rolling in the snow.

Spectacular performances have their place, and physical training is recognized by educators for reasons of moral stamina as well as health. The great trouble, however, is in the fact that nations pick out a few physical specimens to match in the winning contest with a few physical prodigies from the other countries, and if one fellow clears the bar a hair's breadth over the other his nation is at once acclaimed and hailed as the victor in physical prowess and skill, and it is taken for granted that the winner is truly representative of his own countrymen. This is true in part, but no such international contest can show positive proof.

Athletics, in its recreative aspect, cares little who wins. But it does and should care much whether opportunities are open for physical development of the masses of the people, as contrasted with the desire to produce a winning team, and to the great physical detriment of the millions on the "bleachers" of undevelopment. It is important to win, but more important to have everybody in the game. And the awkward fellow needs to play most. Olympic games offer no solution to such a problem, but foster that which is directly opposite.

PURCHASING POWER AT HOME

Without regard to price, distance or delay, and granting that home pride and community duty did not enter into the question, we still would say that your dollar has a greater purchasing power when spent in the home community than when spent out of it. No prodigy in mathematics is necessary to figure out the simple proposition that a dollar spent in Campbell is a dollar invested in Campbell.

Communities have no protective tariffs or trade treaties, or revenue collecting measures as have nations. But when you buy away from home you pay for it. The tariff you pay is the loss in general prosperity of the home town; and every citizen, by virtue of the convenience, service and protection that his home community affords him engages at least in a moral treaty with his fellow citizens.

The two most disgusting things to be out of order are our liver and our flivver.

Sometimes the sidewalk isn't wide enough for him and he walks in the streets.

Ezra Meeker, noted pioneer, ninety-four years old, announced that he intended to file petitions as a candidate for representative from the Forty-seventh district in the state legislature of Washington. Try Monterey Cheese

MONTEREY cheese, sometimes called white cheese, Italian cheese and various other names, is a new item among our good cheeses.

The flavor is distinctive. For want of a better term, we will say that the cheese has "character." Though mild, it is decidedly different from other mild sorts, not "peculiar," but distinctly good.

The whiteness of this cheese causes some folks to ask if it's made from skimmed milk. We only know that it is branded "Full Cream," and that it has the true creamy taste.

The price is 35c, the same as our fine Mayrose California cheese. Adventure a bit when next ordering cheese and try this Monterey brand.

Modern Banking and How it Has Changed
From Pre-War Days

WE HAVE before called attention in these articles to the fact that the modern bank renders services in many directions in which the old time bank did not venture. It not only renders service but the modern bank makes a special effort to give aid and advice in financial matters, whenever the opportunity arises. It even invents ways to achieve that end.

Realizing that mere saving is a slow way to accumulate, it offers the provident plans by which they can accumulate much faster than by the ordinary method of depositing savings in the bank. Thus if you have a minimum of $2,500.00 you can take it to the Humboldt Bank in San Francisco and they will at once add $5,000.00 to it or twice the amount of whatever sum you may deposit. Then you agree to pay so much a month and in less than six years the entire sum is yours.

To illustrate, I place $2,500.00 with the Trust Department of the bank in its "Trust Investment Savings Plan." The bank loans me $5,000.00 in addition. The entire $7,500.00 is then invested in high grade securities or mortgages and I agree to pay the bank $50.00 a month. The interest of course on the loan of $5,000.00 decreases with the payment of each $50.00; but the interest on the investment of $7,500.00 continues with the result that while I have paid in only $600.00 on my loan at the end of the first year, I will be credited with

EDITOR BAMBER IS GIVEN PUBLICITY ON HIS LIFE

Leonard Agazellow in Mercury-Herald

Joseph J. Bamber, 85-year-old editor of the Los Gatos Mountain Realty, a monthly publication, devoted to the foothill section, has the distinction of having voted for every Republican candidate for president since Abraham Lincoln. In addition to voting for Lincoln in 1860, Editor Bamber, who has led a picturesque and spectacular life, is proud of having had the opportunity to shake hands with Lincoln just after the Chicago convention of 1860.

For many years Bamber and an older brother, now dead, operated the first stage and express line between Oakland and Santa Cruz. Los Gatos was a relay station where fresh horses were procured. The brother had the contract for hauling the mails and carrying the San Francisco daily newspapers.

"Time certainly has traveled fast and it doesn't seem so many years ago that I voted for Lincoln. I recall him just as if the meeting was only yesterday. Lincoln had been nominated and came to Belleville, Ill., my home, and the afternoon of the evening he was to speak, I went over to the tavern where he was staying and shook hands with him."

"Abraham Lincoln was a great and a good man and sometimes I wish he were alive today as he was a leader and would be a great help in leading public thought at this time."

"I voted for Lincoln in 1860 and will vote for Calvin Coolidge next November. I have never missed voting at a presidential election and I have always voted the Republican ticket."

"When I speak of Abraham Lincoln I cannot help but thinking of the day that the news came of his assassination. I was in a San Francisco theatre and when the announcement was made from the stage I hurried to a newspaper office and learned the news. Then I hurried to Oakland and waited for the San Francisco extra editions and as soon as they came, we placed them on the stage and through the newspapers the people of this section first heard of the shocking news."

Los Gatos had but a few residents in the early sixties, Bamber said.

But during the last year of the Civil war, people from nearby ranches would come over to Los Gatos to meet the stage and hear the latest news of the battles. Newspapers were in demand and sometimes people would sit up all night long to get the papers.

"After my brother passed away the Wells Fargo company purchased our line between Oakland and Santa Cruz and I entered the company's employ. While with the company I became acquainted with such famous early California characters as Senator Fair and Hearst, Governor Leland Stanford, William Tevis, Judge Terry and a lot of others, who made history."

Despite his advanced years, Bamber is hale and healthy and has the physical vigor of a man 60 years of age. He was an athlete in his younger days and still keeps active by tossing an occasional game of "horseshoe," a popular pastime in his Illinois home.

Bamber's wife, the first white girl born in Oakland, passed away many years ago.

Contented Prisoner

The idyllic character of the old New England village is prettily illustrated by a remark made about Concord, Mass., by a former resident, Mr. Edward Simmons, the famous painter. Concord, he says in his book, "From Seven to Seventy," was a town utterly without crime. There was no gazing into the jail windows to catch a glimpse of the hideous offenders against the law.

I have heard of but one prisoner in my life, and he was so mild that he hardly made an impression. During my time the man was the only inhabitant of the jail, and technically he did not belong there. He had been imprisoned a number of years before for some offense and after being released had returned and begged to be taken in again, as he was lonely and had got used to the place. So you could see him almost any summer evening, sitting out on the steps of the jail. He was a great pet of the Emerson family and was hired to play the violin for all the dances.—Youth's Companion.

Few Bricks Actually Brought to America

How often you hear it said of an old house that the bricks of which it is made were imported from England or Holland, states House and Garden Magazine. People actually believe this to be a fact, just as they believe that the Mayflower brought over vast quantities of furniture. Had this been true it would have required more than one Leviathan to have brought either the furniture or the bricks.

The historian, George Cary Eggleston, remarked on this in one of his books: "Nearly all these bricks, whether English or Dutch, were made in America, as later scholarly research has conclusively proved. The only difference between English and Dutch bricks was one of dimensions. The small bricks molded upon a Dutch model were known as Holland bricks. The much larger ones, molded upon an English model, were called English bricks."

"The very learned and scholarly historian of South Carolina, Mr. McCrady, has conclusively proved that the so-called English bricks used in the construction of Carolina houses could not have been imported from England."

Most available evidence seems to confirm the views that left-handedness is a hereditary characteristic. The infant of a few months shows no preference in the use of its hands. But when four or five months of age the normal child begins to show a preference for the right hand. The hereditary theory of right-handedness is often called the "primitive warfare theory." It was in the left hand that the primitive warrior held his shield to protect his heart. His right hand was left free to handle the spear or other weapon. Naturally the right hand was used more and as centuries passed became more accustomed to strenuous exercise. Finally right and left-handedness became hereditary characteristics of the race. But this is only a theory. There is a wide difference of opinion on the subject. Some believe this characteristic developed by accident or education; others think that it is fundamentally physiological. It is said that most people are also right-eyed, right-eared and right-footed.
